The first step involves consciously halting any automatic response to anger. When feeling triggered, individuals are encouraged to pause and avoid reacting immediately. This moment of stopping interrupts the cycle of escalation and provides space for rational thought.

Practical tips:

- Use physical cues such as putting down an object or stepping back.
- Remind yourself mentally to "Stop" before reacting.

2. Take a Breath

Deep breathing activates the parasympathetic nervous system, which helps calm the body's stress response. Taking a deliberate, slow breath reduces physiological arousal associated with anger, such as increased heart rate and muscle tension.

Techniques include:

- Inhaling slowly through the nose for a count of four.
- Holding the breath for a count of four.
- Exhaling slowly through the mouth for a count of four.

3. Observe

This step involves paying attention to your thoughts, feelings, and physical sensations without judgment. Recognizing the signs of anger early allows for better regulation.

Questions to consider:

- What am I feeling right now?
- Where do I notice tension or heat in my body?
- What thoughts are running through my mind?

4. Proceed

After pausing to observe and calm, you can choose how to respond constructively. This might include communicating assertively, taking a break, or employing other coping strategies.

Strategies include:

- Expressing feelings calmly and clearly.
- Engaging in problem-solving.
- Choosing to walk away temporarily if needed.
